

A Step Towards

EDUCATION

National Infant Immunization Week

Taking a step towards education includes observing National Infant Immunization Week (NIIW) annually to highlight and celebrate the importance of protecting infants from vaccine-preventable diseases. The Scott County Health Department supports the importance of immunizations and provides immunizations for residents from birth through 18 years of age who meet Vaccine for Children (VFC) eligibility.

Maternal, Child, and Adolescent Health Program

The Maternal, Child, and Adolescent Health program offers a number of services. Scott County Health Department works to connect families and individuals to health care providers and community resources. Staff educates clients about benefits offered through Managed Care and provides developmental screenings for children under age five.

Disaster Readiness Conference

The Quad City Health Care Coalition hosts an annual event to gain insight from experts that discuss lessons learned from real life events and response efforts. Learning this information allows first responders, support agencies, businesses and non-profits, community partners, and elected officials to better respond to disasters. The goal of the conference is to help local professionals better respond, manage, and recover from disasters.
